

FAQ

How many years have I been in business?

I started Cause for Celebration in the spring of 2011 and just recently re-branded. I am now doing business as Pop the Cork Productions still under my Cause for Celebration LLC. Why the change? I originally started my business with a .co domain which proved to be troublesome in many ways so I decided to freshen up my brand including a new .com domain.

How many years experience do I have planning and managing weddings and events?

I hate to date myself, but I've been in the food and beverage/hospitality business since I was 16 years old. The service industry is in my blood. I started planning and managing events over 20 years ago in Scottsdale and fell in love with it immediately. My passion for the business has only continued to grow since!

How many weddings have I planned/managed?

I've lost count over the decades through my career....but hundreds, on top of many many other types of events including corporate meetings, new product launches, community events, private concerts, golf tournaments, holiday parties, birthdays, anniversaries, showers, graduations, retirement parties, etc. etc. etc.

What is the largest wedding/event I've planned/managed?

I was the Director of Catering at a private club that hosted a major on the Senior PGA tour providing hospitality for 30,000 guests. I've done a private concert for 500 guests on the side of a mountain in a 3 level custom tent with a rotating stage. I've done a wedding reception for 500 guests at a private club in Scottsdale. No challenge is too big!

Why do I do what I do? Why weddings? Isn't it stressful?

I love celebrating! I love helping people make their wedding dreams come to life! I love being resourceful, I am organized and a hard-core multi-tasker. I am detailed but also see the big picture. I'm an idea person that can also see it through to fruition. I am calm in stressful situations and an expert trouble-shooter.

How many weddings will I commit to in one weekend?

I personally will commit to only one wedding per week as I believe my clients deserve my full attention for their big day.

What makes Pop the Cork Productions different from other planners in the Valley?

I have two decades of managerial and operational experience in some of the most respected private clubs in the country. I understand and provide exceptional service. I know how to build a team and work together with vendors and venue staff to ensure a successful event. I have managed multi-million dollar budgets successfully, I can keep you on track with your priorities and your budget, leaving the decision-making up to you. It's your day, your way. ♥
